

Grant Beck

From: Louise [7luckystar@comcast.net]
Sent: Friday, May 22, 2009 8:37 AM
To: Grant Beck
Subject: Yelm City Water Issues

The City of Yelm is trying to substitute a Mitigated Determination of Non-Significance (MDNS) for an Environmental Impact Study (EIS) regarding their proposed five-fold increase in water withdrawal quantities.

Does anyone really know how this will impact residences with wells that may go dry?

Can anyone say this is for the benefit of the community when there will be substantial rate increases (3x's) on residents water bills (according to the city) because of this water source, especially with the economy the way that it is?

Isn't it against the law to take away water from others in order to serve other POTENTIAL residents, meaning residents in the future?

Why wouldn't you just stop when you have gotten all you can without the detrimental affect to others, instead of trying to add more and more residents, shops, etc. and isn't more and more contrary to the benefit of the community? Do we really need that????

I propose that this be stopped before it gets any worse and KNOW what affects this will have economically and every otherwise.

Louise Oliverio
Yelm, Washington